

PLAYGROUND WORK IS BEING PUSHED

Arrangements for Convention Nearing Completion.

NATIONAL ORGANIZATION

Special Efforts Will Be Put Forth to Secure Model Ground for Washington.

Arrangements for the convention of playground workers and prominent sociologists of the country, which will be held in this city April 12 to 14, under the auspices of the Washington playground committee, were about completed at a meeting of the special committee held yesterday afternoon. It is proposed to form a permanent organization under the name of the National Playground Association, with a view of promoting the playground movement throughout the country.

Special efforts will be made to obtain a model ground for Washington this year, and if the project is successful the efforts of the National Association will be concentrated on some other city next year. It is expected that between fifteen and twenty delegates will attend the convention.

Acceptances Received.

Acceptances have already been received from Miss Mary McDowell, head worker in the Chicago University Settlement; Miss Sadie America, of the Jewish Women of America; Dr. Luther Gulick, Seth T. Stuart, and Myron T. Scudder, of New York, and others. An invitation has been extended to Jacob Riis, of New York city, but it is not known yet whether or not he will be able to attend.

The convention will hold its sessions at the Y. M. C. A. during the three days of the convention. Thursday, April 12, the local playground committee will give a banquet to the National Association, and invitations will be extended to a number of Congressmen. Commissioner Macfarland will preside at the dinner.

Grand Public Rally.

On Saturday night, April 14, Dr. Curtis is planning for a grand public rally, at which a number of the prominent workers from other cities will speak in the interest of playgrounds for Washington. Two or three other public meetings will also be held during the convention.

BROOKLYN CLERK HAS INVENTED AN AIRSHIP

NEW SORT OF AIRSHIP WITH CONCAVITY LIKE A BIRD.

Sure He Has Solved Problem of Aerial Navigation Without Balloon.

NEW YORK, March 29.—After fifteen years' patient study and experimenting, Charles W. Clark, a clerk employed in the installation department of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Brooklyn, has, he believes, brought to perfection a machine for the navigation of the air of practical utility.

It differs essentially from all flying machines invented up to this time, the nearest approach to it in principle being Prof. Langley's aeroplane, on which the Government spent $70,000, and Israel Ludlow's box-shaped kite, which came to a disastrous ending at the foot of West Seventy-second street a few weeks ago.

Mr. Clark has reached the point where he is confident he can build a machine complete for a little less than $500, a machine which can be driven through the air at a high rate of speed, regardless of the strength of the wind, and which can be kept in motion for an indefinite period, and under perfect control of the operator, who can steer the craft in any direction and ascend or descend at will.

Bird Wing Principle.

The most radical departure made by Clark is his entire elimination of the gas bag, or hot-air bag, method of gaining and maintaining an elevation, and there-in is the only suggestion of the aeroplane principle. He sails through the air precisely as a great bird, with outstretched wings, and motion is maintained by the revolution of a device at the front of his machine. It cannot properly be called a propeller, because it draws the machine forward instead of pushing it. The construction of this is Clark's secret, which he is confident will solve the whole problem of aerial navigation.

The flying machine proper consists of two large flanges or wings of bamboo frame work, covered with canvas. They have an area of 200 square feet each, and instead of being flat as in the aeroplane are convex on their upper surface.

The concavity is just like the hollow under the wing of a bird and the cushion of air which fills these cups is the sustaining power of the machine, sufficient, as the inventor has demonstrated to his own satisfaction, to keep it aloft, even when the motor is not in operation.

From the rear of the machine projects a three-flanged rudder, controlled by slender steel cables, that lead to the hands of the operator, who is seated on a saddle, like a bicycle saddle, directly under the wing.

NO RAIDING PARTY AT TUXEDO FIGHTS

Twenty-Round Battle Held Near Philadelphia.

CROWD DESPITE DOUBT

Thousand Fans on Hand to See Frank Carsey Beat Phil Logan. Warrants Served.

ESSINGTON, Pa., March 29.—All the thrills of the authorities came to naught, and the Tuxedo Club, Tom O'Rourke, promoter, held its opening bout as per schedule here last night.

The show gave Philadelphia a chance to see long distance fighting for the first time in many years.

The wind-up of twenty rounds between Frank Carsey, of Chicago, and Phil Logan, of Philadelphia, resulted in a victory for the visitor. He won all the way. Fred Welch, of England, was too much for Eddie Lenny, in the other bout.

Although some doubt existed about whether the bouts would be permitted, a crowd of about 1,000 turned out. During the wait they admired the appointments of one of the best planned fight arenas ever constructed. Those who feared there might be no lighting at all felt better when Welch and Lenny stepped into the new ring to give it a pugilistic baptism.

Seven rounds of the ten rounds of this bout lacked decisive action, but in the eighth the Englishman cut loose and fairly outclassed Lenny.

The wind went all one way. Logan seemed afraid of Carsey's swings and fought on the defensive. After the bouts the principals were served with warrants to appear in court at Media today, where they will be given a hearing to determine the legality of the club's action in holding fights in Delaware county.

Lehigh Sophs Wreck Transit Trolley Car

Students on Rampage After Indulging in a Banquet Raise High Jinks in the Vicinity of Bethlehem.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., March 29.—Several score of sophomores of Lehigh University students early this morning wrecked a Lehigh Valley transit car so badly that it will cost the company several hundred dollars to repair the damage done. The sophomores last evening held their annual banquet at Broadhead Station, four miles from here, and the trouble occurred while they were on their way home.

As the car came to a stop to let them board it the students, many of them in their cups, it is said, started to hurl rocks. The conductor and motorman were soon overpowered, and the students then proceeded to raise high jinks. Many extra fares were rung up, all the inside furniture was wrecked, windows were broken, and the roof of the car damaged beyond repair. Another car that happened along was only saved from similar treatment by quick action on the part of the motorman.

The trolley officials are considering the advisability of causing the arrest of the whole class. The university authorities, besides ordering the class to pay the cost of their fun, will mete out more severe punishment.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectively clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison or catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. They are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and pure blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the lozenges are greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."
